THE GIVING SEASON

Big turnout shares gift of life in time of historic need

BY BOB DEMAREE

With the American Red Cross blood supply at historically low levels, having the auditorium at the Madison Jefferson County Public Library filled with donors giving blood on Thursday afternoon is a holiday gift that saves lives.

"It's been steady and busy all day," said Jacqueline Pruitt, mobile phlebotomist with the American Red Cross. "The strong turnout has been good," which is encouraging "because of the shortage that's going on."

Earlier this week, Amber Youngblood, Senior director of communication for the Kentucky region of the American Red Cross, had issued a plea for donors while noting the lack of blood on had was a serious concern.

"Right now, the American Red Cross blood supply is at historically low levels. We're at a point where some patients relying on a transfusion may not receive the blood they need," Youngblood said. "If more donors don't come forward to give blood, some patients requiring a transfusion may potentially face delays in care."

To encourage donations this month, all who donate between Dec. 17 and Jan. 2 will receive an exclusive Red Cross long-sleeved T-shirt, while supplies last.

The next blood donation opportunity in Jefferson County will be Wednesday, Dec. 29, at Hanover United Methodist Church, 220 East Lagrange Road, Hanover, from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Madison resident Betsey Vonderheide was one of those on hand Thursday to give the gift of life. She has been a regular blood donor for many years and her blood donation on Thursday was her 40th

At a time when it is most needed — regional blood supplies are at historic lows — there was a big local turnout Thursday at the American Red Cross blood drive at the Madison Jefferson County Public Library. The next local opportunity to give blood will be Wednesday, Dec. 29, at Hanover United Methodist Church.

American Red Cross mobile phlebotomist Jacqueline Pruitt (left) prepares to collect a donation from Madison's Betsey Vonderheide, a regular blood donor for many years who was making her 40th donation on Thursday. "It's really important to do, and I'm glad I could come in to help," Vonderheide said.

"It's really important to do, and I'm glad I could come in to help," Vonderheide said.

According to the Red Cross, every two seconds someone in the United States needs blood, which is essential for surgeries, cancer treatment, chronic illnesses and traumatic injuries.

Chris Hrouda, president of Red Cross Biomedical Services, said that during the COVID-19 pandemic, the Red Cross has experienced challenges collecting blood due to blood drive cancellations and surging hospital demand.

"We recognize that this is a trying time for our country as we balance the new demands of returning to former routines with the ongoing pandemic, but lifesaving blood donations remains essential for hospital patients in need of emergency and medical care that can't wait," he said.

Donors are urged to schedule an appointment by using the Red Cross Blood Donor app, visiting www.redcrossblood.org/give.html/donation-time or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). There is no blood donation waiting period for those who have received a flu shot or a Moderna, Pfizer or Johnson & Johnson COVID-19 vaccine or booster, so long as they are symptom-free.

Each Red Cross blood drive and donation center follows the highest standards of safety and infection control, and additional precautions — including face masks for donors and staff, regardless of vaccination status — have been implemented to help protect the health of all those in attendance. Donors are asked to schedule an appointment prior to arriving at the blood drive site.

Trilogy plans to subdivide houses on West Street

Veterans cemetery, event venue on BZA agenda

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Trilogy Health Services LLC inquired this week about creating a five lot subdivision with five historic homes located on the West Street side of its downtown River Terrace Health Campus.

The homes, former residential housing in the 500 block of West Street bought up over several years by previous owner King's Daughters' Health and used for a range of business and professional offices, were part of the downtown health campus KDH sold to Trilogy after KDH built and opened a new hospital and health campus on Madison's hilltop in 2013.

Trilogy took over the former hospital site that same year and the buildings have been mostly unused since, some with paint peeling and steps in disrepair. But with several other homes in the 500 and 600 block of West Street currently undergoing improvements, the plan is apparently to subdivide the five structures from the health campus and either develop them as residential housing or put them on the market.

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A surge in COVID-19 cases in Indiana and related hospitalizations with the illness topped 3,000 people this week for the first time in nearly a year, according to tracking by the state health department.

About a quarter of those patients are in hospital intensive care units where COVID cases and other severe illnesses have given the state's hospitals their highest-ever total patient counts of about 12,000, according to the Indiana Hospital Association.

In addition, Indiana is averaging about 35 COVID deaths per day this month.

In Jefferson County, the number of COVID-19 positive cases has been high this week with Jefferson County Health Department Administrator Tammy Monroe noting that Wednesday's increase of 89 new cases was the second-highest in Jefferson County since the beginning of the pandemic.

"This is not the time to let our guard down," particularly going into the winter months while dealing with COVID-19 variants," Monroe said. "As we go into the winter months and people are moving indoors we just need to be more diligent."

On Thursday, reports from the Indiana Department of Health showed Jefferson County with 33 new cases of COVID-19 in the last day, increasing overall total to 6,394, and a 14.6% positivity rate. In Switzerland County, there were 15 new cases of COVID-19 for an overall total of 1,561 and a 19.5% positivity rate. Meanwhile, the Kentucky Department of Public health reported a one-day increase of four new COVID-19 cases in Trimble County for an overall total of 1,444 and a 25.86% positivity rate. There were six new cases in Carroll County for a total of 2,240 and a 18.59% positivity rate.

There were no new deaths reported with Jefferson County's total remaining at 110, Carroll at 32, Trimble at 28 and Switzerland at 14.

So far in the month of December there have been a total of 16 COVID deaths in the four Courierarea counties.

On Thursday, there was a hearing by the Indiana House of Representatives for a bill that includes administrative actions that Gov Eric Holcomb says would allow him to end the statewide COVID-19 public health emergency that's been in place since March 2020.

Holcomb has said he would end the statewide public health emergency if lawmakers approved steps that would allow the state to keep receiving enhanced federal funding for Medicaid expenses and those eligible for food assistance programs, along with allowing the state health commissioner to issue a standing doctor's order for the administration of COVID-19 vaccinations for children ages 5 to 11.

Holcomb said Wednesday he believed those items had "universal agreement" and should be dealt with separate from the vaccine requirement issue which is also under consideration.

"Why not deal with what we agree on, get that out of the way and then have our discussion?" Holcomb said.

House Republicans have taken up the effort they maintain would protect individual rights by forcing employers to grant exemptions to workers who claim medical or religious objections to any workplace COVID-19 vaccination requirements.

Republican House Majority Leader Matt Lehman of Berne, who is sponsoring the bill, described the measure Thursday as ensuring individual liberties so that people wouldn't lose their jobs over not being willing to get the COVID-19 vaccination.

"We must protect Hoosier workers," Lehman said. "The genesis of this, the reason that we need to continue, is that we need to make sure Hoosier workers are protected."

Indiana has the country's ninth lowest rate for a fully vaccinated population at 51.5%, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Eight rural counties scattered around the state have vaccination rates below 40%.

Guest with a gross habit

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My middle-aged confirmed bachelor brother-in-law is a frequent and welcome dinner guest at our house. Lately, when no one is here but his brother and me, he's begun cleaning his plate with his finger and then licking his finger. Sometimes he just licks his plate.

He is a dear. He's also sensitive and easily hurt. I'm reluctant to say anything that might drive him away, and my husband doesn't want to mention it, either. But this unwelcome attention to the last drops of his food makes my stomach churn. I'm hoping that if you print this, he'll take the hint — and maybe other food lovers will examine their etiquette, as well. — Grossed Out in Georgia

Dear Grossed Out: This is a classic etiquette conundrum in which calling out the offensive behavior would be ruder than the behavior itself. So I think you'll have to continue to bite your tongue and avert your gaze on this one. And perhaps it will be easier to stomach if you consider what a compliment it is to your cooking.

Dear Annie: A lifetime ago, I was like "Brice," the 11-year-old kid whom "Ashamed and Terrible Stepdad" wrote to you about. If the stepfather "hates" what he himself describes as a respectful and sweet kid merely because the kid likes to read books and is not into sports or the outdoors, then the stepfather has a very serious problem. As you suggest, odds are high the stepfather has internal doubts about his own masculinity/ heterosexuality.

You recommend therapy, and the stepfather could potentially benefit from that. Unfortunately, it might not yield a positive result, particularly if the family lives in an area where kids who are "different" are viewed askance. Except in the largest U.S. cities (and even in some of them), people with similar perspectives and outlooks tend to cluster together, and any locally based psychotherapist could easily suffer from the stepfather's prejudices.

Tragically, there is no question Brice is aware that his stepfather despises him for what he is. I am also certain that the two "rough-and-tumble" sons are equally aware of the situation. If they haven't already started to treat their stepbrother in a disrespectful and demeaning way, they will start doing so very soon as they reach puberty. All kids pick up on feelings; it doesn't matter whether they're bookworms or jocks.

The bottom line: This family is seriously dysfunctional; the mother is in denial about what is going on (as many mothers in similar situations are) and also needs therapy; and all three children are at risk. If an intervention of some kind does not occur, odds are very high that Brice will grow up to hate himself and trust no one, that the stepbrothers will grow up to be bullies (or worse) and that the parents' relationship will deteriorate.

The one saving grace is that the stepfather has more self-awareness than most other father figures in similar situations. The fact that he signs himself as "ashamed" and "terrible" offers some hope for the family's future. — Been There and Done That in Western New York in the 1960s

Dear Been There and Done That: I'm printing your letter, as I feel that it will be useful for "Ashamed" to hear the perspective of someone who's been in his stepson's shoes.

Boyfriend's past has me questioning him

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: After paying my dues with bad relationships, including a toxic marriage that took me way too long to leave, I have finally found real love with a man whom I've known since we were teenagers.

After my divorce, we got back in touch and started dating. I had always had a crush on him, and he tells me that he felt the same way when we were younger, but nothing ever happened. We're not naive and know we each have our own histories with previous relationships; however, having just recently found out just how much history he has has triggered some insecurities that maybe I'm not quite as special as I previously thought I was.

There was a pretty sizable window of opportunity before we lost touch, when we were spending enough time together for something to happen, but to me, he didn't seem to have the same feelings. However, now that I know just how many other girls there were that he chose over me at that time, I'm starting to question if he actually did have the feelings for me he claims he did.

He tells me it was because he was too intimidated, but he clearly didn't have any problem with those other girls, so why was it just me? I know the past is the past, and I'm grateful that, after all this time, he finally chose me, but I just can't help but feel that I'm just the next girl on the list. How do I move on and get past this? — Insecure

Dear Insecure: Sounds like you're not sure if you are living in a fairy tale and he is the prince who chose you over all the other fair maidens. You also have a choice of whether you want to choose him. Trust your instincts. Are any of his current actions making you feel like you are just the next girl on his list? And you have to ask yourself if you really want to be with a guy who has lists of girls. It might be more insecure to stay with a guy like that.

On the other hand, he could have glorified you as "wife material," and that is why he waited while sowing his oats, so to speak. If that is his thinking, then he is pretty sexist and I'm not sure you want to be with a guy like that either.

If you found out about his other women from him — by his being open and honest with you — then he might be OK. But if you heard about it through the grapevine, be careful.

Dear Annie: I was in a relationship where I lived with this man for six years. We have lived apart for two years now, and I'm not in love with him anymore. I do love him, but not romantically.

He is a narcissist, and I don't know how to approach him in letting him know that I no longer want to be with him. There is nobody else in my life right now, so that is not why I want out.

The problem is that he has to move out of his cousin's house, and he wants to move back in with me.

I don't want to live with him and go through hell again, which is what happened when we lived together. Please help. — Need to Break It Off

Dear Break It Off: The word NO is sometimes the kindest word you can tell someone. The next time you speak with him, tell him it's over — and don't back down — no matter what he says. Set him free so you can set yourself free. Don't focus on being afraid to break up with him. Focus on the fact that you will be giving yourself, and your ex, the opportunity to find a more healthy and loving relationship.

they saw him reach into the waistband of his pants. He was quickly detained, and a subsequent check of the waistband, found a .40-caliber handgun.

Flint and his K-9 partner, Meko, conducted an open air sniff of the vehicle in which Cory and Megan Vessels were previously observed, and Meko alerted positive for the presence of narcotics. During the subsequent search, officers located methamphetamine, paraphernalia associated with the use of narcotics, and another handgun in a purse belonging to Megan Vessels.

Cory Vessels faces preliminary charges of being a Felon in Possession of a Firearm, a Level 5 felony; Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony; Possession of Paraphernalia, a Class C misdemeanor, and on an active Jefferson County warrant for Failure to Appear on a previous Operating While Intoxicated charge.

Megan Vessels faces preliminary charges of being a Felon in Possession of a Firearm, a Level 5 felony; Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony; and Possession of Paraphernalia, a Class C misdemeanor.

Both were lodged in the Jefferson County Jail without bond.

Capt. Season Jackson and Jefferson County Sheriff's Deputy James Webster assisted with the investigation.

Elsewhere on Thursday, police responding to a report of a toddler having ingested a narcotic arrested a Madison couple on three counts of felony Neglect of a Dependent Child.

On Oct. 25, Madison Det. Jeremey Perkins responded to an incident at the family's residence that led to the toddler being treated at King's Daughters' Hospital emergency room then later transported to Louisville for further treatment.

The investigation, led by Perkins in conjunction with the Department of Children Services, determined Joshua A. Abbott, 40, and Mistie Abbott, 35, both of Madison, parents of the child, did not possess a valid prescription for the narcotic the toddler reportedly ingested, resulting in arrest warrants being sought and received for both parents.

"It was a very serious situation before a little kid ingesting a narcotic," Madison Police Chief John Wallace said. "The child actually had to have Narcan used on him at the hospital."

Both parents were taken into custody without incident and transported to the Jefferson County Jail charged with Level 3 felonies. Bond for each was set at $50,000 cash only.

Also on Thursday, Hanover Police arrested Robert Lee Vincent, 33, Cross Plains, after they followed his truck and determined there was a warrant for his arrest, which was confirmed when he stopped the vehicle at the Shell gas station in Hanover.

During the arrest officers located methamphetamine, paraphernalia and other narcotic-related items.

Vincent has been charged with Dealing Methamphetamine, a Level 4 felony; Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony; Maintaining a Common Nuisance, a Level 6 felony; Possession of Legend Drug, a Level 6 felony, and Possession of Paraphernalia, a Class A misdemeanor. He was lodged in the county jail without bond.

On Wednesday, a welfare check concerning a child led to two arrests by Madison Police involving Audra Elaine Gray, 42, Madison, and Gerald A. Beamus, 46, Louisville, on narcotic related charges.

After going to Gray's West Fourth Street residence, Sgt. Aaron Watson noted an odor of marijuana which led to a search and the discovery of marijuana, methamphetamine and paraphernalia associated with the use of drugs.

Gray was taken into custody and faces preliminary charges of Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony; Possession of Marijuana, a Class B misdemeanor; and Possession of Paraphernalia, a Class A misdemeanor. Beamus was charged with Visiting a Common Nuisance, a Class B misdemeanor. Both were lodged in the county jail with Gray released on a $1,000 full cash bond and Beamus released on his own recognizance.

Jackson, Shelpman, and the Department of Child Services provided assistance.

On Sunday, Hanover Police were dispatched to a residence concerning an active physical domestic situation and arrested Benjamin Carpenter LaPointe, 25, Hanover, without incident.

LaPointe is charged with Domestic Battery, a Level 5 felony, and Domestic Battery, a Level 6 felony (2 counts). He was lodged in the county jail on a $25000 cash bond.

Hanover police were assisted by the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department.

Meanwhile, Jefferson County has seen an influx of counterfeit $20 bills, according to Wallace, who encourages merchants to closely check all paper money before accepting it. Anyone with information regarding counterfeit activities should contact the detective division of the Madison Police Department, Jefferson County Sheriff's Department or Hanover Police Department.

Bill Pettit, of Pettit & Associates, was before the Madison Plan Commission this week for an advisory hearing to determine what action will be needed to make that happen. Zoned Central Business District now, the property could possibly return to residential.

According to Devon Sharpe, attorney for the Planning Board, a variance will be needed to split the houses from the health campus to form a subdivision and then a rezoning or conditional use permit could possibly be needed depending on their purpose in the future.

The houses, all located in the city's historic district and listed as contributing structures, can be repaired and preserved but any renovation of exteriors would have to comply with historic district guidelines.

The Plan Commission met for about 10 minutes Monday and the advisory hearing was the only discussion. The actual application for a variance, which would require adopting a variance and a plat for the five homes, could be back before Plan Commission at its next meeting.

Later on Monday, the city's Board of Zoning Appeals held its final meeting of 2021 with a couple of topics of interest on the agenda of which only one drew any discussion.

Included in the BZA's agenda was a request by the Indiana Veterans Memorial Cemetery for a variance to expand the number of grave sites on the current cemetery rounds located at 1415 MSH N. Gate Road.

Opened in 1999, the cemetery is the final resting place for about 2,500 veterans and their spouses. About half of the 110-acre site had been developed by 2010 and was ready for up to 58,000 burials.

Since no representative was on hand to discuss the application, the BZA voted to table the request until its next meeting.

A second request did draw considerable discussion before the BZA voted to approve a conditional use permit for a former warehouse structure, located at 928 Park Avenue, to be utilized as an event venue.

Chad Gray said the plan is to use the former Mayflower Moving Company warehouse as an event venue limited to the ground floor. Gray said recent renovations would allow space for about 250 to 300 guests with on-site parking and facilities to accommodate catering for parties, weddings and other large gatherings.

Gray said the architect and fire marshal have both indicated the space could safely accommodate up to 300 visitors but formal permits and business licenses have not yet been sought. Parking on-site could handle about 55 vehicles with four handicapped spaces and additional on-street and off-site parking is available.

Gray said his family has been working on the site, originally the location of a brewery in the 1900s, for about four years to convert space once used for brewing, warehousing, tool and die making and even a hemp grow room.

Bernard Kelley, who lives next door to the property, said he had no concerns about noise, parking or traffic but that the number of people and hours are a concern especially since the city's sewage system on that end of downtown might be insufficient to handle the bathroom needs of 300 guests. He said when sewers have overflowed in the past, they have emptied into the basement at 928 Park Avenue and his backyard.

Gray said sewage needs are an issue to be determined but that if upgrades are required he would do that because he doesn't want raw sewage backing up into his basement or nearby yards. He noted there were no issues when the second floor was used as a grow room requiring large amounts of water discharge.

Gray said that with 15-inch brick walls and double-paned windows, the amount of sound escaping the building should be acceptable to neighbors. He said he'd like to remain open until at least 1 a.m. because downtown bars and other venues in Madison are open until 3 a.m.

According to Gray, the venue would be by reservation only and not a nightclub or bar. However, he does intend to pursue an alcohol license to be able to provide for guests and catering. He said there is much work left to be done and permits to obtain so it could be six months before the facility can open.

The BZA approved a conditional use permit for two years with stipulations that traffic patterns discussed during the meeting be implemented, that there be no outdoor music at the site and that occupancy be limited to 250 guests.

Is your retirement income based on guarantees or assumptions?

"Smart planning should include some of your important retirement accounts are guaranteed." Steve Dybwad

Layin It On The Line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/ Wealth Management

When planning retirement, do you depend on projections based on future conditions, or do you plan your retirement based on guarantees? The answer may surprise you; both can be the correct answer. It all depends on your situation and what "time" period you are focusing on retirement.

Let's start with a projection or estimate of future value planning. If you base your future retirement income solely on US (or foreign) stocks, the volatility factor must be included. How will your chosen stocks perform over some time, and how easily can they convert to a retirement account to fund your desired income level? S0 much about a stock's performance can depend on outside influences such as the overall world economy, the valuation of the dollar, inflation or deflation, and a third parties (analysis) view of your stock's profit results. A group of top stock strategists can predict anything from a single-digit loss to a double-digit gain.

How do you plan for your future retirement income?

Whom do you trust?

How do you estimate future market values?

Experimenting with discretionary funds is one thing, but significant retirement funds could be a poor choice. Once again, it all depends on your situation.

Many people lose sight of the actual goal of retirement planning, which in its most basic form is to make your retirement income lasts as long as we do. This seems like a relatively straightforward objective, so why do so many people start with a retirement income strategy that leaves so much to chance? Let's consider the choices again by category; one is an estimate, and the other is a guarantee. Depending on your asset values and your desired lifestyle, there can be room for both types of planning. The key is that essential expenses must be covered first and fully funded by lifetime income sources.

You'll enjoy some significant advantages if your lifetime sources of income are sufficient to fund essential lifestyle expenses. The question and problem are the same: How do you do it? First on the list is to avoid market volatility risk and accept a reasonable rate of return.

New studies show if given a choice, most people would choose safe, secure income over yields. When the funds have to be there, and the income is essential, safety becomes the first decision. Having this sort of income planning eliminates the possibility of outliving your source of income, or what is called longevity risk. Knowing that your necessary expenses are covered with a guaranteed source of income is a great comfort and sense of freedom to enjoy your retirement years, no matter how long you live.

Given all the uncertainties, the unpredictable outcomes, and the unending list of "what-ifs" facing investors, it's no surprise that drawing an accurate road map to where financial markets are headed is no easy task. Even for the Wall Street players who admit there are too many variables that are beyond our capabilities to absorb and forecast. That is precisely why it's a top priority for those retired or about to retire to understand the risk they face without having put into place a guaranteed retirement income solution to alleviate the risk of running out of money.

Let's take a look at the state of America's retirement system. A generation ago, pension plans were offered to more than four out of five private-sector workers—today, it's fewer than one in three. An employee has mainly replaced pensions paid plans like 401(k)s, 403(b)s, or 457s. Expenses built into many of these plans make it difficult to earn the needed money to fund basic retirement needs. The shortcomings of this approach are evident in its lack of guarantees—an essential factor when you consider the current historical level of market volatility. Plus, new insight into how fees are charged and the actual cost of owning these plans have come under regulatory scrutiny.

Thankfully, solutions exist that can potentially increase your income and generate a lifetime pension payout to both spouses with the benefits of protection and guarantees.

We use the only financial instrument to provide a guaranteed income that you cannot outlive and maintain control of your money with upside potential and no downside risk. How can this be accomplished?

Naturally, by handing the risk of managing your significant retirement funds to a risk bearer. An insurance company is a risk bearer.

Since the Presbyterian Church first invented annuities nearly 300 years ago, annuities have been the cornerstone of millions of retirees' significant retirement income. With the evolution of new and dynamic products, a guaranteed income with annual crediting in the 4-7% range is fully available.

Removing risk from retirement planning by allowing an insurance company to manage your retirement accounts can provide you with a stress-free and secure future.

Madison girls rally past Jennings

BY JORDAN BEAR

Madison executed its game plan to near perfection as the Cubs stunned Jennings County 40-37 on Thursday night at home to grab their third win in a row.

Jennings County came into the game having won 10 of its first 12 games and featuring 6-foot sophomore forward Julianne Woodard, who had at least one Division I school on hand to watch. But none of that mattered to the Cubs, who stayed close throughout and then struck late to pick up the win.

"If you came to this game, or were listening to this game and you weren't entertained, there's something wrong," Madison coach Sonja Bowyer said. "This was so much fun. What a great high school basketball game."

The game didn't start great for Madison which quickly found itself down 7-0 early in the first quarter. The Cubs regrouped, however, to close the gap to 9-5 by the quarter break but they still trailed 17-10 at halftime.

The third quarter was where the Cubs began to rally as shots finally started falling thanks to a different strategy implemented by coach Bowyer.

"We wanted to force them to come out and guard us. When that happened, we were able to penetrate into the lane and then kick out to our shooters," Bowyer said. "Plus, we were able to get some shots to fall at the rim."

The momentum then shifted to the Cubs at the end of the third quarter when junior Breck Ralston hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer to cut the Jennings County lead to 25-24.

The fourth quarter was still a back and forth battle between the two teams but Madison finally claimed its first lead halfway through on a Casey Dyer layup. Jennings answered with a big 3-pointer on the other end to extend its lead back to two.

Madison's Cam Cahall (5) looks for a teammate to pass the ball to after recovering a loose ball during the Cubs' win over Jennings County on Thursday.

Madison's Cadence Traylor then hit a corner three with just over a minute remaining to give the Cubs a lead they would never relinquish. Madison then hit its free throws down the stretch and a Jennings shot at the buzzer bounced off allowing Madison to secure victory over their former Hoosier Hills Conference rival.

"In a game like that, your mind is going a mile a minute even if the game is going 10 miles an hour," Madison senior Taylor Lynch said. "We knew that we had to execute our game plan and we did. I'm ecstatic right now. We stuck together on the court, and we all have each others' backs. This was a great team win and so much fun to be a part of."

Traylor led the Cubs with 12 points, Cam Cahall scored 11, and Casey Dyer chipped in 10 points. Jennings County was led by Molly Vogel with 14 points while Woodard scored eight — just half of her season average.

Madison, winners of three games in a row, improved to 7-5 with the win.

Jac-Cen-Del continues its mastery of Southwestern in 64-56 victory

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Jac-Cen-Del has been a rare thorn in Southwestern's side over the past several seasons and Thursday night was no different as the Eagles used a big first-quarter run to seize the lead and never trail again in a 64-56 win in Hanover.

Jac-Cen-Del had beaten Southwestern each of the previous two years using its combination of length and athleticism to disrupt the Rebels' game plan. It was the same formula this time as the Eagles challenged every shot at the rim and got seemingly every offensive rebound.

Add to that 17 Rebel turnovers, and it was a long night all around as Southwestern suffered its first loss of the season.

"Give them credit. They've had our number for a few years now, and even when we were ranked No. 1 in the state they gave us all types of problems," Southwestern coach Zac Nussbaum said. "They're a tough team. The seniors have won a lot of games for them there. And they're going to continue to win games."

Southwestern (5-1, 1-1 Ohio River Valley) couldn't have gotten off to a better start. After giving up a basket to the Eagles' Caleb Simon to open the game, the Rebels got a 3-pointer from Jamison Lewis and back-to-back buckets off of steals by Colton Cloud and Lewis to jump out quickly 7-2 and prompt a Jac-Cen-Del timeout.

The Eagles regrouped and were a different team. Starting with a Wyatt Day basket, Jac-Cen-Del ripped off a 16-2 run that was capped by three straight 3-pointers — two by Simon and one by Day — to push ahead 18-9. Zach Cole ended the rally with two free throws for the Rebels and Parker Davis added a basket, but Southwestern still trailed 18-13 after the first quarter.

Shawe boys roll CAC for 3rd straight win

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Shawe boys basketball picked up its third straight win with an easy 65-13 victory over visiting Christian Academy of Carrollton on Thursday at home.

The Hilltoppers led 23-2 after the first quarter and never looked back, holding a 41-6 lead at halftime. All 12 players on the roster got into the game as the team emptied its bench.

"We were able to jump out quickly and get a lead and then were able to get some guys some minutes that work hard every day in practice. The guys shared the ball and it showed as all 12 scored tonight," said Shawe assistant coach Phil Kahn, still subbing for head coach Dan Hambrick. "I was very proud of the way we handled the game and we need to move on for an important couple games going into the holidays."

Eli Turner posted 14 points to lead the Hilltoppers while Philip Kahn added 12 and Jack Grote and Wyatt Nichter each scored eight.

"It was good to see so many guys score tonight. Eli continues to improve and Philip and Jack have been consistently putting the ball in the hole for us," coach Kahn said. "We need Wyatt Nichter to hit some shots and he came in the second half and did just that."

Shawe, now 3-2 on the season, has back-to-back home games early next week, facing South Ripley on Monday and Cannelton on Tuesday.

Bengals, Broncos have ground games geared for playoff run

BY ARNIE STAPLETON
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

DENVER — Broncos receivers Tim Patrick and Courtland Sutton haven't been producing like the $90 million duo they became when they signed contract extensions during their bye week last month.

In three games since, each has five receptions, none for touchdowns, their contributions limited mostly to run-blocking for Melvin Gordon and Javonte Williams.

"At the end of the day, we're winning. That should be the most important thing, no matter how we do it or who has a great game," quarterback Teddy Bridgewater said as the Broncos (7-6) prepared for a visit from the Bengals (7-6), another team jockeying in the logjammed AFC playoff chase.

You haven't heard Patrick or Sutton griping for more throws, and chances are Bridgewater hasn't, either. He said the only game he's watched as a fan this season was the Patriots' 14-10 win at Buffalo in nasty weather last week.

"The quarterback threw the ball three times. You think anyone was in the locker room pouting?" Bridgewater asked. "I'm at that point—and I'm trying to get guys to understand—that it's hard to win in this league. Whenever you come across those wins, it doesn't matter how it happens, as long as you win. We celebrate, then we talk about it come Monday. 'Hey, can I get involved a little more?'

"Our coaches have been doing a great job of trying to get guys involved, but at the end of the day it just comes down to winning."

Receivers worth their salt — and hefty paychecks — had better be good blockers this time of the year anyway, as the temperatures fall and teams gear up for the playoffs.

"That's the thing—it's like, 'OK, I'm not putting up numbers,' but you watch Melvin break a run for 15 yards and Court is still blocking the corner on the sideline, helping Mel get an extra five yards. Those guys have been huge in different areas," Bridgewater said.

"Of course, we'd love to get them going in the passing game. It's a passing league and we want to see the ball in the air. We want to see guys making highlight plays and big plays. However, these wins present themselves, that's what it's all about."

If the pendulum is starting to swing back from the pass-heavy game the NFL has become, Bill Belichick is ahead of the curve, as usual. But teams like the Broncos and Bengals have just the kind of ground game to scamper back into the league's upper echelon themselves.

Gordon and Williams, a rookie who led the nation in broken tackles last year at North Carolina, have combined for 1,909 scrimmage yards and 15 touchdowns. Cincinnati running back Joe Mixon ranks second in the NFL with 1,036 yards rushing and he's run for a dozen touchdowns and caught two TD passes.

Here's a couple of caveats for Sunday's showdown:

—Mixon has been bottled up the last two weeks and starting right tackle Riley Reiff went on IR this week, which could make the yards harder to come by for Mixon.

—Williams missed practice time because of a swollen leg the Broncos said wasn't serious. Still, it could affect Williams' ability to drag defenders downfield like he did at Kansas City earlier this month when all but 11 of his 102 rushing yards came after contact.

STACKS OF SACKS

Bengals DE Trey Hendrickson has 12½ sacks and if his balky back allows, he could join Chiefs DT Chris Jones on Sunday as the only players since 1982 with a sack in 10 consecutive games. Jones had an 11-game sack streak in 2018.

"Well, we've got one of the best left tackles in the league in Garett Bolles," Denver guard Dalton Risner countered. "I think he's going to do a great job against Hendrickson. ... Running the ball will help that out a lot."

BUNGLING BENGALS?

The Bengals' last trip to the playoffs was in 2015, the same year the Broncos last made it. But with Cincinnati losing two straight, coach Zac Taylor met with his captains this week.

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Indianapolis and New England have seen a little bit of everything during their epic, long-running rivalry.

The script has included Hall of Fame players and coaches, great plays, fourth-down follies, fantastic finishes, bitter emotions, deflated footballs and, of course, plenty of controversy.

On Saturday, the former division foes will add another prime-time episode to their decades-long series, this time with a familiar plot twist and a mostly new cast.

"I love watching those type of games," Patriots quarterback Mac Jones said when asked about what he remembers of the previous matchups. "But this year is this year. They have a great quarterback, too. I always say this: Our offense is going against their defense and vice versa. We both have great teams and we're just excited to go to a great atmosphere and get a chance to compete against a great team."

It wasn't expected to be this way in September or October.

But Indy rebounded from a 1-4 start to climb into the No. 6 slot in the AFC playoff chase. And a year after missing the playoffs and starting 2-4, New England has won seven straight to claim the conference's top spot.

While this contest could play a key role in dictating everything from which teams make the postseason to home-field advantage yet again, this time will be different. Neither Peyton Manning nor Tom Brady will be the feature attraction for the first time since 1997.

A lot has changed even since these teams last met in 2018.

Jones is having a milestone rookie season for the Patriots, rekindling images of Brady's early days, and Wentz has rediscovered his franchise quarterback form after escaping Philadelphia.

Colts running back Jonathan Taylor leads the NFL in rushing and the Pats also have shown they can lean heavily on their ground game, as evidenced by throwing just three passes in windy Buffalo two weeks ago.

Colts linebacker Darius Linebacker will make his series debut after sitting out the 2018 contest because of an an injury, and New England revamped its defense by signing two-time Pro Bowl linebacker Matthew Judon in free agency.

LeVert scores 31 points, Pacers beat Pistons

BY MARK AMBROGI
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Caris LeVert scored 20 of his season-high 31 points in the first half and the Indiana Pacers sent the Detroit Pistons to their 13th straight loss, 122-113 on Thursday night.

"The past couple weeks I've turned the corner with my body," said LeVert, who missed the first several games with a stress fracture.

The Pacers were without point guard Malcolm Brogdon because of a sore Achilles. LeVert said having his backcourt mate out didn't change how he played.

"I always try to be aggressive," LeVert said. "I had the ball in my hands more."

LeVert was 12 of 18 from the field.

Pacers acting coach Lloyd Pierce said LeVert is shifty.

"He as a lot of wiggle to his game," said Pierce, who took over with Rick Carlisle out after testing positive for COVID-19 . "He finds a way to get into paint. He had a tremendous end of second quarter.

Justin Holiday added 17 points for Indiana, shooting 5 of 15.

Jac-Cen-Del (5-2, 1-0 ORVC) would then bend but never break over the the game's final 24 minutes. Every time Southwestern made a small run, the Eagles would answer, holding a 29-27 lead at halftime and 42-37 after three quarters.

More than anything, Southwestern struggled to overcome its own turnovers. Many of the miscues came as a result of the Rebels trying too hard in the paint to get an open shot around the lengthy Eagles.

"The turnovers were the big thing. And they weren't even forced turnovers. (Jac-Cen-Del) was long and athletic, but some of our turnovers were just mental mistakes," Nussbaum said. "And we saw that a little bit against Clarksville (on Tuesday), but Jac-Cen-Del is such a good team and they're going to take advantage.

"You can't turn it over against a team like that and expect to win."

Southwestern made one last push to try to get on top, getting three straight baskets from Cole, Davis and Mitch Mingione to cut the lead to 46-43 with 4:11 to play.

But Justin Sweeney answered with a 3-pointer for the Eagles and it was never a one-possession game again as Jac-Cen-Del sank 11-of-13 from the free-throw line to ice the win.

Cole scored 19 points to lead Southwestern while Cloud had 13 and Lewis added 11. Simon scored 22 and Day 21 to pace the Eagles.

Southwestern will take the weekend off before preparing to defend its Jefferson County Invitational Tournament title starting on Wednesday.

The Rebels face a tough challenge with Silver Creek in the opening round but Nussbaum is excited for the tournament to get started.

"We are going in with the mindset that this is the type of field that we need to go against to find out what we need to work on," Nussbaum said. "I felt like last year we played Danville in the final and that 1-3-1 that they threw against us really helped us learn how to attack it for when we faced Linton-Stockton in the regional.

"So we are going in there trying to win it. The biggest thing is to just keep keep finding ways to get better — finding ways to get us ready for the big tournament there at the end."
